WHEREAS, Mr. Jesus Charfauros, affectionately known as Jesus “Chamorro” Charfauros to the people of Guam, the Marianas, Micronesia, and wherever Chamorro gather, was born in Apra on February 2, 1933, and is the son of Faustino Laguala Charfauros and Dolores Ofricido Cruz, and
WHEREAS, Jesus Charfauros graduated from George Washington High School in 1955, and after graduating from high school, he began serving the people of Guam as an employee of the Public Utility Agency of Guam (now the Guam Watershed Authority), and
WHEREAS, in 1958, Jesus enlisted in the U.S. Army and served with the 25th Infantry Division “Empire Lightning” at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii; and
WHEREAS, in 1961, Jesus Charfauros married Sylvia Francisco Campos, and together they raised four (4) children: Mark, Sylvia, Matthew and Mikangel; and
WHEREAS, after returning home from serving in the Army, Jesus worked at the Department of Revenue and Taxation, where he held numerous positions and performed various duties, to include Processing, Processing Supervisor, Audit, Audit Supervisor, and Technical Research; and he was detailed to work in Saipan as assistant to the Commonwealth of the Marianas Islands (CMI) in the adoption of the U.S. Internal Revenue Code in their tax system; and
WHEREAS, in 1974, Jesus received the Ch. Omielio Gamiana, Honorary Scholaristic Society of University of Guam (UOG) Award for his outstanding scholastic achievements and academic excellence; and
WHEREAS, in 1976, Jesus Charfauros began working at local radio station KUAM 610 with his brother, Tommy Charfauros, when they took over the “Chamorro Hour” radio show, which later became known as “Programa Chamorro,” which filled the airwaves with Chamorro language and music; and
WHEREAS, in 1985, Jesus Charfauros retired from the government of Guam; and after retiring, he worked for Landscape Management Systems, Inc. (LMS) and Delmas Landscaping; and
WHEREAS, in 1989, Jesus Charfauros began Programa Chamorro and performed in numerous evening Chamorro shows at several local venues, such as Joe & Phil’s, Lancer’s, Mayo Mango, Chop Charlie’s, Double A and Mang Lounge; and
WHEREAS, in 1991, Jesus Charfauros received the Guam Annual Media Award for Excellence in Public Service Program/Broadcast; and
WHEREAS, Jesus Charfauros will forever be remembered for his passion and work to preserve the Chamorro culture and language through music; and his knowledge and creative use of the Chamorro language has inspired countless local Chamorro singers and artists; and
WHEREAS, Jesus Charfauros will forever serve as a role model to many of our island’s radio disc jockeys, who have been inspired by his eccentric, entertaining, and original on-air performances; and
WHEREAS, during the UOG Spring 2012 Commencement Ceremony, Jesus Charfauros received an honorary Master of Micronesian Traditional Knowledge from the University of Guam to honor him for his lifetime of work in promoting the Chamorro language and culture; and
WHEREAS, in September 2012, Jesus Charfauros was honored at a celebration on his behalf as a musical event called, “One More Night with Jesus Charfauros,” where numerous Chamorro musicians came together to play many popular Chamorro songs; and
WHEREAS, the musical and cultural legacy of Jesus Charfauros will forever remain and continue to live on in the hearts, minds and memories of the people of Guam; and many people will fondly remember how he would often end a show by finishing the phrase, “Obo Hiala” (now therefore, be)
