Relative to recognizing and congratulating Mrs. Irene Fernandez Laygo as she celebrates her 102 years of life; and to further commending her as a "2014 Senior Citizens' Month Centenarian."

BE IT RESOLVED by MINATRENTAI DOS NA LIHESLATUR GUAM:

WHEREAS, Irene Fernandez Laygo is the daughter of the late Frederico and Manuela Fernandez, and she was born on September 20, 1912, in the beautiful town of San Fabian, Pangasinan, Philippines. While attending La Union High School in Pangasinan, Philippines, she met and fell in love with Lawrence C. Laygo Sr., her high-school sweetheart, and they eventually married and went to live in the Philippines after graduating. Together, they eventually had seven children: Irene, Lawrence Jr., Elpidio, Felicita, Irene, Cirilo, and Angel, and

WHEREAS, Irene's husband wanted to create a better life for his family, and he moved to Guam in 1948 to find work. Irene, the strong and independent woman that she is, was left with her seven children to care for and raise on her own. As a way to support her children, she opened a small store called a "San Joe" in the Philippines, and she also traveled from town to town selling tobacco. Although they lived apart, Irene's husband would take great vacations and travel back to the Philippines to be with his family, and though his visits may have been for a short amount of time, Irene cherished every single moment when her family was complete with her presence.

WHEREAS, eventually, Irene moved to Guam in September 1964 to join her husband. Although Irene was a very hardworking woman, when it came to her career, she prioritized her role as a mother and became a full-time, loving mom to her children while she was on Guam. She dedicated herself to her family and sacrificed as much as she could to provide for their children with the best opportunities, including her children to become successful individuals, such as chemical and professional engineers, registered nurses, businesswomen, teachers, social workers, and medical technicians, and

WHEREAS, Irene had six, cared for, and supported her children to become successful individuals, and by the time they raised children of their own and started their own families, she became the primary babysitter for all of her grandchildren. She loved her family so much that she temporarily moved to the United States with her husband, specifically to Los Angeles, California, to help care for her grandchildren. Her children view their mother as a woman who radiates unconditional love and compassion, cares for her family, and endorses it to the people of our island community.

WHEREAS, throughout the years, Irene and her husband continued to work towards creating a strong, welcoming family, where everyone is raised with dignity and respect. On September 18, 2004, Irene and her husband celebrated their 70th Wedding Anniversary. Her family planned and coordinated a big celebration, which included a procession of a Legislative Resolution to the couple from the 2nd Guam Legislature, and a Proclamation from Governor Felix Camacho proclaiming September 18, 2004 as "Lawrence and Irene Laygo Sr. Day" in recognition of their 70th Wedding Anniversary. As they both grew older, Irene and her husband took up residence at St. Dominic's Senior Care Home. Irene was married to Lawrence for 73 years until his passing on August 17, 2006, at the age of 92. Their long life together is unbreakable to the love they had for each other, as well as for their deep faith in God.

WHEREAS, aside from taking care of her children and grandchildren, Irene enjoyed planting vegetables, such as eggplant, string beans, and longkong and she loved to cut fish and vegetables. She enjoyed dancing with her husband, especially at the Adama Senior Center as they were devoted participants in early morning to prepare for their daily activities, such as playing cards, dancing, and visiting local stores during field trips. One year, the Senior Center was able to draw a number for her fly spot, but she was named as the Guam's representative for the Yap La Rama event, where she was crowned as a "Princess" of the Royal Court, and

WHEREAS, today, Irene continues to be well cared for at the St. Dominic's Senior Care Home. She loves sitting near, reading, and watching television, and she looks forward to her weekly visits from her daughter and son-in-law, as she would always bring her three treats to enjoy. Irene has seven children, nine grandchildren, two great-grandchildren, and two great-great-grandchildren, and therefore, be it
